1. The airfield was located between the road and the railroad line from SARTICHALA (45°10'E/41°43'N) to TBILISI, about one mile southwest of SARTICHALA. Both the road and the railroad line run along the edges of the field before leading in serpentine almost as far as TBILISI. The field was on a plateau and was conspicuous from all sides.
2. The landing field was about 6,600 x 10,000 feet. A concrete runway, 3,300 feet long and about 230 feet wide, and four large dwelling blocks were built by the PMs between the field and SARTICHALA.
3. No personnel or aircraft were located at the field in the spring of 1948.
